BLOOM FINDER 2021 Edition

A comprehensive list of cultivars sorted by class, then color, and finally, alphabetically.

A Publication of the Classification Committee
National Chrysanthemum Society, Inc.

Using the Bloom Finder

This Bloom Finder is derived from the 2020 Edition, Handbook of Chrysanthemum Classification. The cultivars have been sorted, first by class, then by color, and finally alphabetically. This arrangement should aid the show's Classification Committee Chairs in attempting to identify the name of an entry with an uncertain name. Once the Committee has identified the color and class of the cultivar, then the names of the cultivars meeting this first identification can be reviewed and, hopefully, a positive identification made. Please refer to the NCS Handbook of Chrysanthemum Classification for information on Garden Cultivars.

Class (Group) Key

Chrysanthemums are classified (grouped) for ease in descriptive effort. Classification is needed for identification in purchase, use, and exhibition. A classification system is especially needed for an organized and orderly manner of presenting specimens for exhibition.

Any classification system may be somewhat arbitrary. There will always be borderline types and those that seem to fit more than one description. Climatic conditions do affect bloom forms. The NCS Classification Committee has endeavored to develop definitions that will be understood internationally. The following order of bloom type classes (groups) is an effort to be similar to those in international use.

Size Designation Key

AA – The largest Class 1 and 2 blooms. These cultivars need a long, cool, frost-free growing season or final greenhouse protection. In warm growing areas, these cultivars seldom reach their maximum size and may develop open centers. They are always grown as disbuds.

A – Large blooms. These cultivars should be grown as disbuds.

B – Medium sized blooms normally grown to disbuds but sometimes grown to spray form in Classes 6, 7, 8, 9, and 12.

C – Small blooms grown to spray, tree, cascade, hanging basket, and bonsai forms. Many garden cultivars have C-size blooms. Normally not disbudded.

The size designations below show the AA, A, B, and C sizes in each class. Size designations are not consistent because there is a wide difference in the top size for different classes of mums. For example, a 4" to 6" irregular incurve is a Size B; a 4" anemone is a Size A.

| Class | Description           | AA  | A       | B     | C   |
|-------|-----------------------|-----|---------|-------|-----|

Response Key

- E — early season, 6, 7, and 8 week cultivars, generally blooming by September 30.
M — mid season, 9 and 10 week cultivars, generally blooming October 1 - October 22.
L — late season, 11, 12, 13, and 14 week cultivars, generally blooming October 23 into December.

General Bloom Dates

- 8 weeks: September 5 to September 30
9 weeks: October 1 to October 10
10 weeks: October 11 to October 22-25
11 weeks: October 26 to November 10
12 weeks: November 11 to November 27

Color Key

Please Note: The color codes that are shown in Bold are the ONLY colors that are to be used on the NCS entry card and for placement of cultivars in an approved NCS Show.. The other color* designations in the key are NOT to be used on an entry card. They are only intended to show the great range of colors in chrysanthemums and are a better description of the hue of a color. The color designation is found on the top side of a floret. When the floret is tubular (and “canoe-shaped”), the color designation is found on the inside of the tube (or the “inside bottom of the canoe”).

Class (Group) 1—Irregular Incurve:

Ray florets, usually smooth, broad, and fairly long, incurve in overall irregular manner to form a very large bloom. Breadth and depth are nearly equal. Dense upper florets, regularly or irregularly, completely conceal disk florets. Lower florets may swirl in an irregular pattern. Basal florets may be incurved, reflexed, or very elongated to give a skirted effect. Size range: AA over 8 inches; A, 6 to 8 inches; B, 4 to 6 inches. Examples: “Bola de Oro,” “Luxor,” “Mt. Shasta,” “Jefferson Park,” and “Flor Grande.”

Class (Group) 2—Reflex: Ray florets, narrow to broad, are gracefully overlapping and reflexing in a regular or irregular manner. Large globular to somewhat flattened blooms are nearly equal in breadth and depth. The central, shortened incurving florets should completely conceal the disk florets. Lower florets may be knuckled or dimpled. Size range: AA, over 8 inches; A, 6 to 8 inches; B, 4 to 6 inches. Examples: "Doreen Statham," "Leicester," "Apricot Courtier," "Bill Holden," and "White City."

Class (Group) 4—Decorative: Ray florets may be short, broad to narrow, long and pointed. Upper florets may incurve while lower florets reflex. Disk must not be apparent. Blooms are often flatter than globular. Reflexing florets are usually shorter than those in Class (Group) 2. Blooms in this class (group) frequently have excellent substance. Lacinate-floret cultivars may be found in this class (group). This class (group) contains many cultivars used for garden cut flowers and landscaping. Size range: A, over 5 inches; B, 3 to 5 inches; C, under 3 inches. Examples: "Obsession," "Peacock," "Western Bushfire," "Annie Girl," and "Fireflash."

Class (Group) 5—Intermediate Incurve:

Ray florets are broad to narrow and may be shorter than those in other incurve classes (groups). Lower florets may be longer and may appear to be partially incurving; some may seem to reflex. Although full-centered with the disk concealed, some cultivars appear to have slightly flattened or depressed centers. Some centers appear to have a crease. Florets are arranged loosely, presenting an open appearance with obverse color showing. Some give a bicolor effect. Overall, the bloom is globular. Size range: A, over 6 inches; B, 4 to 6 inches. Examples: "Alexis," "Norton Vic," "Pat Lawson," "St. Tropez," and "Palisade."

Class (Group) 6—Pompon: Short, smooth, broad ray florets incurve or reflex in a regular manner to produce a firm, ball-shaped bloom with excellent substance. In small button cultivars and immature stage, they appear half-round. Disk must never be apparent. In mature blooms, obverse color may be seen. Examples: "Ping Pong," "Moonbeam," "Lavender Pixie," "Feeling Green," and "Kelvin Mandarin."

USE KEY: b = bonsai; c = cascade; m = mound; d = disbud; p = pot; s = spray; s* = NCS standard terminal spray; t = tree.

COLOR KEY: W = white, cream, and ivory; G = green and chartreuse green; PY = pale yellow to primrose; Y = yellow, including gold; LB = light bronze, includes buff and salmon; B = bronze, includes orange; PP = pale pink and all shades of light pink; P = pink and deep pink; Pu = includes purple, orchid, violet, and lavender; R = red, includes crimson.

Class (Group) 7—Single/Semi-Double:

Strap-like ray florets, concave or convex in one to five rows at right angles to the stem. Some may curve upward or downward at the floret tip. Ideally, they are equal in length and arranged in not more than five rows. In the classic single types (disbuds), one row of florets is present. Florets are usually broad and may be boat-shaped. In (disbuds) semi-double types, ray florets may range from narrow to broad, from fairly short to quite long. Ideally, the prominent disk should be circular and made up of slightly immature disk florets. As in the common daisy, the disk should be flattened to slightly raised. Size Range: A, over 4 inches; B, 2 to 4 inches; C, under 2 inches.

Class (Group) 8—Anemone: Ray florets are variable from ligulate to tubular in structure. Ligulate florets range from short, broad, flattened and nearly equal in length to long, narrow, somewhat twisted, and unequal in length. Others may reflex slightly, with pointed tips. Cultivars having tubular ray florets usually radiate stiffly in matchstick fashion and are spatulate (spoon) at the distal portion. The distinguishing characteristic of this bloom is the prominent raised disk. Numerous well-developed, elongated disk florets, arranged in a circle, produce a cushion which may form slightly raised to hemispherical. The disk florets may be of similar color to the ray florets or may be contrasting. Size range: A, over 4 inches; B, 2 to 4 inches; C, under 2 inches. Examples: "Angel," "Seaton's Ruby," "Daybreak," "Gumdrop," and "Purple First Light."

Class (Group) 9—Spoon: Elongated tubular corollas radiate horizontally from a prominent disk. The circular disk may be flat to slightly rounded. Most tubular ray florets are straight, arranged in a spoke-type manner, and are comparatively narrow. Some present a wider, more ribbon-like appearance. The distal half or less is open, flattened and spatulate (spooned). An obverse color may be presented, giving a striking bicolor effect. Ideally, there should be no more than five rows of ray florets. Size range: A, over 4 inches; B, 2 to 4 inches; C, under 2 inches. Examples: “Kimie,” “Redwing,” “Fantasy,” “Trendy Time,” and “Fire Wheel.”

Class (Group) 12—Brush and Thistle: Ray florets are tubular, from very fine to medium in diameter. In the Ise, or thistle-like blooms, ray florets are somewhat flattened, twisted, and drooping, forming B-sized blooms from 2 to 4 inches in diameter. In Japanese Saga, so-called brush types, ray florets stand straight upward to form C-sized blooms under 2 inches in diameter. In both forms, disk florets are nearly concealed. Examples: "Cindy," "Cisco," "Aoi," "Wisp of Pink," and "Saga No Yuki."
